Anderson-Zastrow

At the Methodist parsonage in this city last Saturday at 1:30 Rev. E. A. Tucker performed the marriage ceremony uniting Mr. Duncan Anderson of the Falcon office and Miss Julia Zastrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bryant of this city, the happy couple leaving immediately after the ceremony over the N. C. & St. L. Ry. for the home of the groom's mother at Im-Arkansas. After a visit there they will make their home in Somerville.

The bride just a week before had graduated from the Fayette County High School where she has been a pupil throughout her entire school life, and where her splendid disposition and lovable ways have won her many friends and admirers. She was reared in Somerville and has always been deservedly popular with all classes and ages here.

Mr. Anderson is foreman in the mechanical department of The Falcon office where he has been employed for several years, coming to his work here right from the battle fields of France. He has proven a valued employee in this office, entirely worthy the esteem and confidence of his employer and of the community, a good and conscientious workman. The Falcon in all sincerity wishes the best of earth's good things for these happy young people.

James G. Knox

Seldom has this community been more shocked at a death of one of its residents than it was Tuesday afternoon when James G. Knox was stricken with apoplexy while engaged at the Harvey Gin in having some bales of cotton moved. Mr. Knox seemed in usual good health right to the moment he was stricken and in spite of his advanced age he was one of the most alert and active men in the community.

Deceased was reared in North Carolina, grew to manhood there, entered the service of the Confederate army with his neighbors from that state and served throughout the four years of warfare, and one of his comrades said of him yesterday after he was stricken, that a braver soldier never went on the battle field. And to the very hour of his death he cherished the memory of his service for the Lost Cause. It was nothing uncommon for him to meet a friend and say to him "54 years ago today so and so happened" or "53 years ago today I was with Stonewall Jackson at so and so," his splendid memory and in fine interest in the efforts of his country enabling him to keep such a track of war happenings as few could do.

After the war he came to Fayette county and has been one of its trusted citizens since then. He was first a mechanic and contractor and among other works here he helped to build the present courthouse. For many years he has engaged in the ginning business and has long had the reputation with a large part of his clientele as being one of the most efficient gin men in the country.

Mr. Knox early affiliated with the Presbyterian church and for a long time has been one of its most active members and one of its most regular attendants. He was a good neighbor, a good friend a good citizen and he will be missed in the community. When called by his sudden death he was approaching his eightieth birthday, a ripe and venerable age.

He leaves no members of his immediate family in this section except his widow, who before her marriage to Mr. Knox was Miss Dora Woodruff. Funeral services were conducted at his late residence Wednesday afternoon by J. W. McNutt, Pastor of the Presbyterian church, and his burial followed in Somerville Cemetery, where his friends gathered in large numbers in their esteem, and where they left his grave banked with rich floral offerings.

Card of Thanks

The fine manner in which our friends and neighbors came to us in our recent bereavement, and gave us assistance, love, sympathy, all that human hearts and human efforts could give in such time of trouble, has helped us to bear up and to soften grief we have undergone, and the our loss is so sorrowful, our hearts so heavy under this grief, the help of our friends will remain in our minds and our appreciation.

We thank those friends and neighbors for every kindness shown and for the beautiful floral offerings.

Craddock Book Club

Tuesday afternoon, May 4, the Craddock Book Club was entertained in the pretty country home of Mrs. Wiley Day.

Contests and games were enjoyed by the guests and Mrs. Roberson, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Armstrong were the lucky recipients of very novel prizes. The home was prettily decorated in tiger lilies and ferns.

A delicious ice course was served by Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Robert Day daughters of the hostess.

Miss Orelle Day delighted the guests with a beautiful vocal solo.

Miss Bess Miller, sister of Mrs. Robert Day and Miss Esther Lehmann, guest of the Misses Lipsey, were happy to have been in Somerville to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. Day, the guests adjourned to meet again June 21, with Mrs. John Havercamp.

Miss Matthew's Recital

On Monday evening, June 6th, Miss Lilly Matthews delighted the Somerville people with a musical recital, given by her talented and well trained pupils. Each number was perfectly rendered and it was unanimously voted that this recital was a brilliant success. Too much praise cannot be given Miss Matthews for the splendid knowledge of music she has imparted to her pupils.

Cut This Out and Carry it With You

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion. adv.

Home Agents Help to Clean up Town

The people of Dandridge, Tenn., know now, or at least they should, what a home demonstration club can do in the way of cleaning up a town. At a meeting of the club early last spring plans that had been used to a good advantage in other towns discussed and the women of the club decided to give their town a spring cleaning, according to Miss Tilda Adamson, home demonstration agent Jefferson County. Her report of the work is as follows:

"A committee consisting of the officers of the club was appointed to supervise the work and the town was divided into five sections. A vice-chairman was appointed for each section, her duty being to see that her section was taken care of. Vacant lots and other unsightly places were cleaned, flowers planted, trees trimmed and white wash applied wherever needed. The town has a special fund for special work done on the streets and the county trucks are used for hauling away rubbish.

"The work has only begun, the vice-chairman being appointed to look after their sections for one year. We now have plans for trash cans, small parks on vacant lots, a library and a number of other improvements. Flies are being swatted right and left. Keeping account of the number they kill seem to appeal to the children. The clean-up spirit seems to be spreading far and wide. It has many even out in the country. Two other towns in the county have taken up the 'clean-up' project. One town is going into it rather extensively."

Many a home is judged by the back-yard keeps. Did you ever try soaking in cold water for a day or so better that was too salty or strong?

Ill health scowls in disgust when it comes to a house with many filled milk bottles sitting by the door.

Booze is Not a Good Cure

FROM THE AMES, IOWA INTELLIGENCER

When a man comes to you all doubled up with pain and declares he will die in your presence unless you procure him a drink of whiskey, send him to a doctor or else give him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. There is a mistaken notion among a whole lot of people that booze is the best remedy for colic and stomach ache. adv.

Moscow School Closing

The closing exercises of the Moscow School showed the splendid work done in the past ten months by teachers and pupils. There were seven graduated from the seventh grade and five from the tenth. Lineous Johnson won first prize in the tenth grade, and Lilla Thomas second prize. First prize given by Prof. Bobbit was a $5 gold piece. The second prize given by the Parant Teacher Association $2.50.

The winners in the primary room, two first prizes, is Shack Franklin, and Ruby Carr, each little contestant received a reward, Ruby Pruitt won the prize in music.

Moscow is interested along educational lines and the Parant-Teacher Association with Mrs. S. Franklin as president has done splendid work considering its membership and capacity, but looking into the future we hope to establish many things for the benefit of the coming generations of Moscow. "C"

Cooperative Buying Saves Farmers Large Sums

The marketing committee of the Robertson County Council of Agriculture placed orders for 21 cars of fertilizer last spring and as a result saved more than $4,000 to the farmers.

Arrangements have been made by the Wilson County Council with a local miller to sell all members flour at current wholesale prices lots of 50 pounds or more upon presentation of certificate of membership to the county council of agriculture.

All of the community organizations of Montgomery County made up a cooperative order for fertilizer which was turned over to the marketing committee of the County Council of Agriculture. The committee received bids from all the leading fertilizer companies in the section. The price of acid phosphate at first was $30.75 per ton but the committee succeeded in buying fourteen cars through a local dealer at $17.75 per ton. This saved the farmers $3,000 in cash.

County agents in the counties mentioned assisted the farmers in putting these deals across which is another evidence of their value to the farmers

Hogs Gain Faster at Less Cost When Given Plenty of Fresh Water and Good Shade

If you want your hogs to make fast gains at the least possible cost, then give them plenty of shade, fresh water and keep from lice and other pests, say livestock specialists of the Division of Extension, University of Tennessee. Hot weather is here and the farmer or hog breeder who sees that his hogs are given the above comforts will receive the greatest profits on market day.

It is a well known fact that animals that are made content will gain faster and at less cost than those that are forced to live under the severe conditions. If your hogs haven't a natural shade, build one of boards, poles and straw or some other material to be picked up around the farm. The hog does not care for a fancy shelter, all he wants is a good shade where he can keep his body cool.

Water is the cheapest requirement of the hog; keep it before him all the time. You may be surprised to see how often he will go and drink. Hot weather also bring one more pest, watch out for lice and mange. These two evils can be abolished by the use of crude oil. Oil has several advantages over other remedies, among which are: It stays on for a longer period of time; it is easily applied, the use of an old broom—and oil by pouring it upon the bedding and letting the hog come in contact with it when they lie down, it is cheap.

Last year the United States Experiment Station showed that it cost 1 cent more to put on a pound of gain; where hogs were infested with lice than where they were not.

For the above reasons the grower should look well to the care and location of his animals during the hot summer months.

"Some time in 1909 when I had an attack of indigestion and everything looked gloomy to me, I received a free sample of Chamberlain's Tablets by mail. I gave them a trial and they were such a help to me that I bought a package, and I can truthfully say that I have not had a similar attack since," writes Wm. B. Wisler, Douglassville, Pa. adv.
